PRIVACY POLICY

WELCOME to Rodolph.com, owned by RODOLPH, Inc. The purpose of this Privacy Policy is to advise you how this web site collects, uses, and discloses information obtained from you when you visit. Every time you use this site, you acknowledge that you have read and agree to the terms of this Privacy Policy, together with the Terms and Conditions of Use. IF YOU DO NOT AGREE, do not access or use this web site in any manner.

Third Party Links

This website provides links to other sites of affiliates and service providers. These links have separate and independent privacy policies; you are advised to read these the privacy policies of any website you visit. Any interactions you may have with linked websites are your sole responsibility, and we do not control their collection of personal information.

Type of Information Collected

As you visit our site, you may choose to provide information which is personally identifiable. This may include full name, address, telephone number, and e-mail address. Points on our site which may request such information include e-mail reply mechanisms, question/comment/feedback forms, product information requests, software download requests, surveys/evaluations, e-mail updates or reminders. Portions of this website are restricted to registered users. The registration process will require a variety of business information to help us identify you with your account. Since you could be using the site for order placement, we will also collect billing and shipping information. Once you have completed registration, you will be connected with a user name and password to allow you to access these restricted areas. If you purchase products or services on our website, the site will collect personally identifiable information and payment information needed to process your order. In that process, we may, for example:

- Use and disclose your information to effect delivery (UPS or FEDEX);
- Use the information you provide to advise status of your order;
- Use the information to create your "account" for ease of subsequent ordering;
- Use the de-identified information to aggregate with that of other users so as to learn about general preferences and purchasing trends;
- Use the information (excluding payment information) to update our affiliates and service providers.

When you actively provide the above types of personal information through any collection point on our web site, you are specifically consenting to its collection, use and dissemination, according to this Privacy Policy.

This web site also uses certain technologies to passively collect information during your visits. This kind of information is not personally identifiable. For example, we:

- Use "cookies", small text files, to store your preferences and enhance your experience when you visit. The use of cookies is an industry standard; you will find that most major web sites use them. We use cookies to store your shopping cart activity and identity as you access the site.

- "Session cookies" last only for a visit, and delete when you shut your browser. "Persistent cookies" store interactive and account information more permanently on your hard drive, so you do not have to reenter the information on each visit. Our cookies cannot take or copy information from your hard drive. While acceptance of cookies is optional, you may not be able to access certain functions on our site if you choose to reject them;
- Collect your IP (Internet Protocol) address that is automatically assigned to your computer when you log on to the internet, along with typing your browser and operating system;
- Collect information about your site visit, which may include date/time, pages visited, and address of website you visited before ours.
- Use of such passively collected information typically includes website administration, customization to your preferences, and gathering of statistics for marketing and research purposes.

RODOLPH, Inc. reserves the right, without restriction, to use passively collected information for any purpose, including but not limited to, selling, leasing, giving access to, or otherwise transferring it to our affiliates, business partners, and any other third parties.
